A HOME TOWN PAPER FOR HOME TOWN PEOPLE

VOL. XXVI

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, SAN MATEO COUNTY, CAL., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1919.

NO. 45

THINK COUNTY SHOULD PAY THE BILL

CITY TRUSTEES TURN DOWN THE REQUEST FOR FINANCIAL AID TOWARD COUNTY "WELCOME HOME" CELEBRATION NOV. 11.

The city trustees of South San Francisco believe that the county of San Mateo should pay for the "Welcome Home" celebration to be held at San Mateo November 11th, without asking financial aid from any of the cities of the county. A motion to that effect was carried at Monday night's meeting of the board and the clerk was instructed to so advise the committee in charge of the affair. The matter was brought up by the reading at the meeting of a communication from this committee asking for a contribution from this city. The city fathers took the stand that, as this city had held its own "Welcome Home" affair for local returned service men and had paid the bills without asking any aid from other places, that this, being a county celebration, should be paid for by the county.

The moving of the city fire apparatus from the South City Garage to the Service Garage was brought up at the meeting by the filing of a number of applications from other garages for the housing and care of the truck and its appliances and by the protest lodged by the Chamber of Commerce of this city against the apparatus being moved. The other applications and the protest were placed on file, no other action being taken.

The application of another returned service man for the refunding of paid taxes, under the law that makes a man who served in the war exempt to the amount of $1000 in valuation, was received and granted.

Notice was received from Contractor Tobin that he had finished the construction of the sewer on Commercial avenue and, on report of City Engineer George Kneese that the work was satisfactory, the clerk was directed to draw a city warrant for 75 per cent of the contract price, plus $36 allowed for extra material used. Mr. Tobin stated in his communication that he had found he had taken the contract at too low a figure and asked that he be allowed about $300 more, but his request was not granted.

By unanimous vote of the board the city attorney was instructed to gather data preparatory to starting condemnation proceedings against the property of the local Methodist church. The city desires the church lot as it is in the block set aside for the civic center, but as yet the city and church officials have been unable to agree on a price for the property.

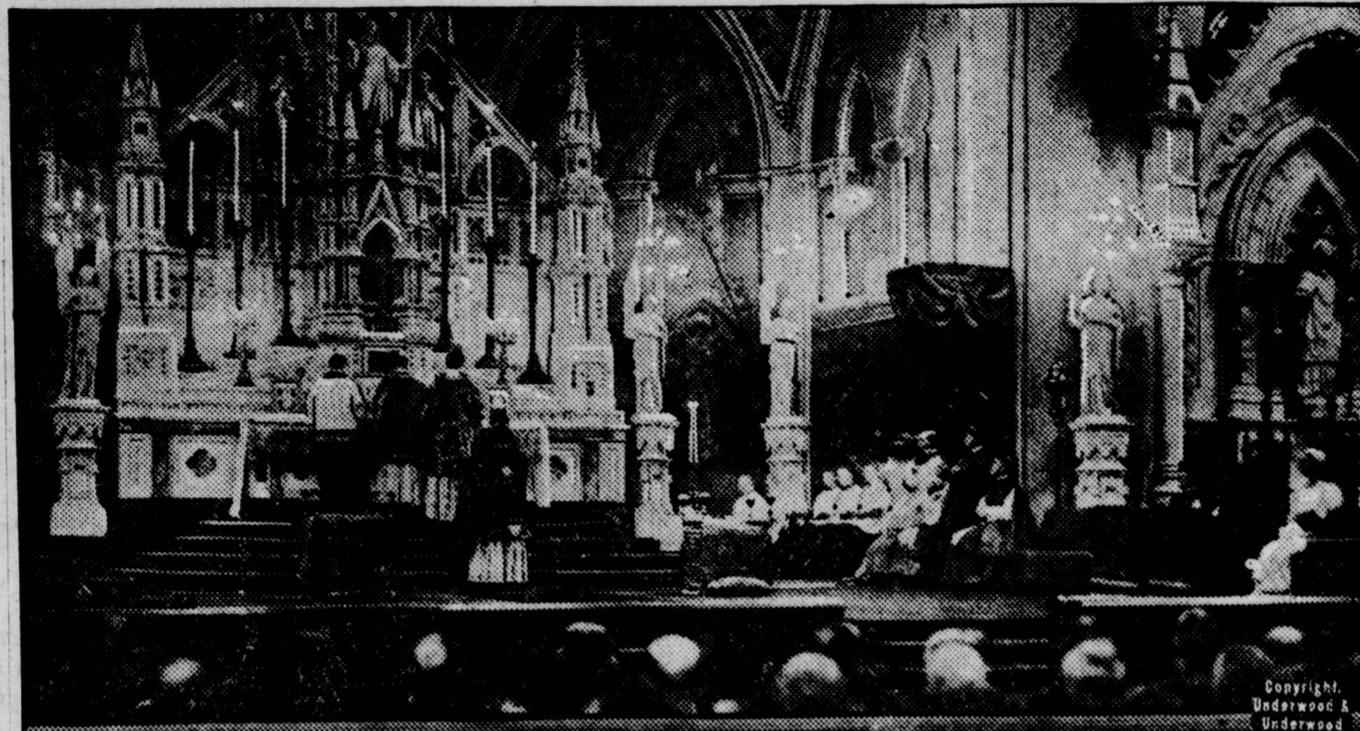

A report was read from Dr. J. C. McGovern of his recent trip to the League of Municipalities at Riverside. Other officials made verbal reports of their trip.

Reports of city department heads were read and accepted.

THIEF GIVEN PROBATION AND ORDERED FROM STATE

Calvin Ruffles, the man caught by W. H. Dinning of this city in the act of stealing his car on the street in San Francisco, was liberated on probation by Judge Oppenheim, but ordered to leave the state. So far as the police were able to ascertain it was Ruffles' first offense.

BODY OF INFANT IS FOUND AT VISITACION

Well-Wrapped Body Found Floating in Water of Bay Beside the Highway Wednesday.

The body of a new-born baby was found in the water beside the highway in Visitacion Valley Wednesday morning. It was wrapped in many folds of covering and was seen floating in the water by E. Lombardi and F. Beffa, both of Colma, who were driving by. Deputy Coroner S. Nieri was immediately notified and the body removed to the morgue in this city. It had apparently been in the water for several weeks. A hole in the wrapping about the body would lend color to the surmise that the body was well weighted when thrown into the water and that it had been lying in the mud for a number of weeks, but that at last the motion of the tidewater, which ebbs and flows under a bridge near by, had worked the wrappings loose when, the weight being liberated, the body had come to the surface. From indications on the body it is believed the infant lived only a short time after birth and was thrown into the water. A coroner's jury met in the city hall of this city Wednesday night and brought in a verdict of death being caused by "hemorrhage due to neglect." The wrappings were too nearly destroyed by decay and the action of the water to offer any clue as to the child's identity.

WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS ENJOYABLE MEETING

The first regular meeting of the newly reorganized Woman's Club was held Thursday afternoon in the club rooms at the Y. M. C. A. There were about forty members present and after the regular routine of business was dispensed with a short singing session was held, followed by an interesting program under the direction of Mrs. E. C. Peck and Mrs. Caroline Coffinberry. This was in the nature of a burlesque fashion show, a dozen or more models being exhibited. The show scored a great success. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served. A great deal of enthusiasm in club activities was shown throughout the meeting. Seven new members were taken into the club at this meeting, bringing the membership to sixty-five.

MORAN CO. AND VIRDEN WILL MERGE

TWO GREAT PACKING COMPANIES CONSOLIDATE, MAKING ONE OF STRONGEST PACKING CONCERN ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

A deal has just been announced whereby the Moran Packing Company of this city and San Francisco has consolidated with the Virden Packing Company of Sacramento. The consolidated company is capitalized at $5,000,000, all paid in, and is one of the strongest organizations engaged in the packing of meat on the Pacific Coast.

By the terms of the consolidation the Moran Company will continue to do business under its present name and at its present places of business, the consolidation meaning that this company is greatly strengthened and its resources tremendously increased.

A number of improvements and extensions are planned for the plant in this city, among those being the putting in of a refinery for the handling of edible oils connected with the packing business.

SAN FRANCISCAN KILLED ON HIGHWAY

One man was instantly killed in an automobile accident on the state highway near Baden late Thursday night.

The dead man is Louis Dart, 30 years old, machinist, 1814 O'Farrell street, San Francisco.

Dart, accompanied by Mrs. Mazie Dart, his wife, was on his way from San Mateo to San Francisco when the engine of his automobile stalled on Portuguese hill, two miles south of Baden.

Mrs. Dart alighted while Dart crawled beneath the machine to investigate the trouble. Another automobile, according to Mrs. Dart, crashed into their machine, and Dart was crushed. His body was taken to St. Luke's Hospital.

Good morning! Have you joined the Red Cross?

REDWOOD CITY WOMAN KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Drives Car Over Steep Bank on Bay Shore Road; Pinned Down Many Hours; Other Cars Near By.

Mrs. Fred Morley of 709 Jefferson avenue, Redwood City, was killed and her husband was badly injured just before midnight Sunday, when the automobile in which they were returning from San Francisco to their home plunged down a high bank on the Bay Shore road. The two were pinned under their auto, and Mrs. Morley was slowly crushed to death while her husband lay near by unable to extricate himself or to assist her. The cries of the two for help were unheard by the occupants of passing machines on the drive above them. The capsized machine was discovered by T. J. Weiss of San Mateo at about 6:30 o'clock Monday morning. Mrs. Morley was then dead and Mr. Morley unconscious. Weiss tried in vain to extricate the two and finally summoned help from the Seven-Mile House.

After regaining consciousness at the Potrero hospital, Morley told of the accident. He said Mrs. Morley was driving. Near Visitacion they ran into a bank of fog. At one of the curves in the road at this place the fence at the side of the road ended, and he believed his wife, not seeing the curve, drove straight on over the bank. The heavy car, turning over, pinned them both.

Mrs. Morley is a machinist employed by the Ocean Shore railroad. Her wife before her marriage was Miss Mazie Read, daughter of John Read, a well-known resident of the county seat. Mrs. Morley was a sister of Miss Caroline Read, a teacher in the grammar school in this city.

BOY THIEVES HELD OVER TO THE JUVENILE COURT

The three small boys who stole $183.50 from workmen at the new houses near the high school last week were brought before Justice W. J. Smith last Friday afternoon and held for trial in the juvenile court. Only about $20 of the entire amount taken was recovered, the boys declaring that somebody else had found the money where they had hidden it under the old firehouse.

CAMPAIGN NOW ON FOR R. C. NAMES

COMMITTEE SELECTED TO TAKE MEMBERSHIPS IN THIS CITY; WOMEN WILL CONDUCT HOUSE-TO-HOUSE CANVASS.

Have you renewed your membership in the American Red Cross? A campaign for new members and for the renewal of old memberships is now in full swing, and it is declared that all you need is a heart and a dollar to participate.

A meeting of business men of South San Francisco was held in the office of E. C. Peck Tuesday afternoon to arrange for the taking of memberships in this city. The work was divided as follows: For the factories — J. W. Coleberd, A. P. Scott, E. E. Cunningham; the north side of Grand avenue — D. W. Ratto, W. J. Smith, B. H. Truax; for the south side of Grand avenue — W. H. Dinning, Henry Haaker, J. C. McGovern, E. C. Peck.

There will be a house-to-house canvass of the residence district conducted by women workers under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. C. Peck. Work in the schools will be in charge of Miss Margaret Kauffmann.

There are now over 6000 members of the Red Cross in San Mateo county and it is believed this number will be increased to 10,000.

It has been customary to hold the yearly Red Cross membership campaign during the Christmas holidays, but this year it was thought best to have it early in November with Armistice Day, November 11th, as the closing date. The memberships will date from January 1, 1920, so that nobody will forfeit any of this year's membership.

BELIEVE CAPTURE OF NEEDHAM SLAYER NEAR

The police of San Francisco believe that the capture of the murderers of M. J. Needham, whose body was found last Friday concealed in the bushes at Baden, is near.

Detective Captain Matheson says he has received an absolute identification of Needham's machine, seen by a traffic officer, passing through Hilltop, Nev., passing east, last Thursday morning. Matheson has sent out telegrams to authorities at advanced points and a watch is being kept.

The police are in possession of a picture of William Eugene Landers, 36 years old, who has been identified as one of the men who engaged Needham's automobile at Union Square last Tuesday night, the night he disappeared.

An attendant at a gasoline station at Fourteenth and Webster streets, Oakland, says a new automobile of the description of Needham's stopped there for gasoline early Wednesday morning. There was a soldier in the rear seat and the man at the wheel answered the description of Landers, according to Matheson.

According to Matheson, Landers is wanted by the police of Baltimore on a grand jury indictment for the murder of Homer Jones, a chauffeur, whose fate was similar to that of Needham. In this slaying Landers employed the same methods as he did with Needham.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The local football team did not show up as well as expected in the game with Redwood Friday and was beaten by the score of 42 to 0. Conspicuous work was done by Spangler and Vaccari, who broke through Redwood's line repeatedly and broke up plays. For Redwood, Hoydock, the speedy fullback, starred, scoring three touchdowns and kicking six goals.

Friday's game will be with Santa Clara high on the local field.

A Boosters' Club was organized at the high school, with Raymond Spangler as president. The club contains those members of the high school who are most enthusiastic workers in the upbuilding of the school. The operations of the club are divided into two groups. First, to make the school the best in the country; second, to advertise that fact and induce all residents of the district to attend. Following are some of the suggestions considered for a basis of operation: Care of school property, building, books, and magazines; proper regard for the rights and property of others; honesty in school work; courtesy to every one; 100 per cent attendance; use of correct English; striving for better scholarship; co-operation with the teachers and principal in procuring discipline and good order; beautifying the grounds; having generally improved conditions.

The second group of activities will deal with letting people know about the school, advertising, and increasing the enrollment of the school.

The motto of the club is, "The best is poor enough for us. Let's have the best."

Following is a list of members to date: Bernice Carroll, Reese Lloyd, Raymond Spangler, Josephine Pene, Charles Dunlap, Beatrice Eikenkotter, Alma Stahl, Bernice Holbrook, James McMills, Hilda Elmers, Elenor Boyle, Edith Broner, Lucile Straud, Darrell Dart, Grace Robinson, Myrtle Mullen, Sarah May Doak, Theodore Fischer, Leo Murray, Elsie Hage, Margaret Carmody, Georgette Quinlan, Marcella Dowd, Bernice Farrell, Charles Robinson, Hayden McMills, Albert Beltrami, Jud Bills, Elmer Vaccari, Miss Wilkinson, Anna Smith, Margaret Kiessling, Miss Clifford, Lottie Empena, Nellie Bortoli, Evelyn Ferrario, Alice Kavanaugh, Mrs. Browne, Miss Shaw, Rosalind Gsell, James Diggles, Thomas Doak, Ellen McConnell, George Arminino, Ruth McMillis, Alice Wallace, Mr. Monroe, Mr. Adams.

DID YOU GET EQUIPMENT YOU ARE ENTITLED TO?

Editor Enterprise: I have been advised by the War Department that every enlisted man in the American army was entitled to permanently retain, upon discharge, the following property: 1 overseas cap (for all enlisted men who have had service overseas) or 1 hat and 1 hat cord for all other enlisted men, 1 olive drab shirt, 1 service coat and ornaments, 1 pair breeches, 1 pair shoes, 1 pair leggings, 1 barrack bag, 1 waist belt, 1 set toilet articles (if in possession when discharged), 1 slicker, 1 overcoat, 2 suits underwear, 4 pairs stockings, 1 pair gloves, 1 gas mask and helmet (if issued overseas), 3 scarlet chevrons.

If the above articles of clothing and equipment were not received upon discharge, they may now be secured by certifying to the facts.

Both officers and enlisted men are entitled to retain the gas mask and helmet if same were issued to them overseas.

Those who desire can make application direct to me, and I will take great pleasure in forwarding the necessary blanks and shall do everything possible to procure the desired property for them.

I will appreciate it if you will run a notice in your paper, giving the facts as I have stated them above, as every enlisted man ought to receive all that he is legally entitled to at the earliest possible moment. Many of our discharged soldiers were not advised of this fact.

Sincerely yours,

H. S. HERSMAN.

CURUSIS HAD MANY THRILLING ADVENTURES

Sam Curusis, who returned recently from service with the American forces in Siberia, tells many interesting tales of adventures in frozen Russia. Mr. Curusis saw much action and at the battle of Romanovka, Siberia, fought with the Red Guards, was one of two left alive out of his squad. After this action Curusis was cited for bravery, the act being the bringing of ammunition to the American soldiers under heavy fire. His recommendation cites that he was one of five American soldiers directly responsible for stopping the Bolsheviks at that battle.

The optimist fills his hearers full of his dreams of the impossible, while the pessimist dwells upon his misery and his woes. The wise man, however, achieves success by becoming neither the one nor the other, but by profiting from the errors of both.

LEGION PREPARES TO PARTICIPATE NOV. 11

An important meeting of South San Francisco Post, No. 85, American Legion, was held at the city hall last Friday evening. Business vital to the interests of all ex-service men in this community was transacted.

A communication was ordered addressed to the principal industrial plants in this city asking for the release from duty of all ex-service men on Armistice Day, November 11th, with full pay, and also requesting that the factories close down if possible.

All ex-service men of South San Francisco are requested to be in the line of march at San Mateo at 9:30 a. m. November 11th. Extensive preparations have been made by the county for a big celebration.

A communication was read stating that any members of the Ninety-first Division resident in this city who had subscribed in France for a book giving the complete history of the division, can now get information how to obtain same by getting in touch with the local post.

The dance committee reported very favorable progress and indications point to the first public event of the South San Francisco Post being a memorable one.

All ex-service men living or working in this city who have not yet become members of the American Legion are urgently requested to do so. The legion meets every Friday evening in the city hall.

The toughest slam yet at a returned soldier was when a Chicago woman, answering a divorce suit, couldn't remember whether or not he had kissed her.

HE SOLD THE KING A THRIFT STAMP

Richard Sipreile, 11 years old, who is a student in the Crocker Intermediate School in San Francisco, won national attention recently when he sold King Albert of Belgium a 25 cent Thrift Stamp. The King had just seated himself in his automobile after an official reception in San Francisco when "Richard, the Lion-Hearted," braving the United States Secret Service men, leaped aboard the King's machine and thrust Thrift Stamp and card into Albert's hands.

"Thank you," said the King, and then the King's car lurched forward leaving the kid behind.

"I didn't want the two-bits," said Richard. "I wanted the King to know what a Thrift Stamp is."

MURDERED MAN BURIED AT HOLY CROSS MONDAY

M. J. Needham of 454 Twenty-ninth Avenue, San Francisco, the man whose body was found concealed in the bushes near Baden last Friday, was buried Monday morning from the family residence. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery. S. Nieri of this city had charge of the funeral.

A moment more and they were in the saloon, the three of them, and Wallen had set Helen MacKay upon her feet—and his back was against the locked door. Still another moment and Gunga was running back across the saloon carrying the door of Wallen's cabin that the night before they had loosened from its hinges.

It fitted, as their measurements had promised them it would fit, at a rigid angle, a solid, substantial brace, between the saloon door and the iron base of the swivel chair at the end of the dining table.

And now there was a rush along the alleyways and down the companionway, and a crash upon the door, a chorus of yells and oaths—another rush against the door.

Gunga was holding out two revolvers in his hands.

"They do not know yet that we are armed, sahib," he said grimly. "Shall I fire through the door—to kill?"

And then Wallen laughed unnaturally as he took one of the weapons from Gunga's hands. It had been for that that Gunga had gone to the captain's cabin. One they had hoped to get—and Gunga had got two. And this one was his own, and he had ammunition in plenty in his cabin that he had bought in Singapore, that they did not know he had. And he laughed again—and fired.

There was a sudden scurrying of feet to right and left along the alleyway without, a renewed chorus of shouts and oaths; but an abrupt, even surprised cessation of attack upon the door—though he had fired only at the floor.

He turned to Helen MacKay, where she was standing erect, white-faced, her hair, loosened in her struggle with him, streaming over her shoulders, one small white hand now holding her little silver-chased automatic at her side.

"Miss MacKay," he burst out, "please move to one side of the cabin. They are likely to start firing through the door panels from the top of the companionway, and you are in the line of fire, and—"

"The d— hound's hiding behind the woman's skirts—the yellow cur! Go on there—rush that door again!" It was Mott's voice, raised in an infuriated yell.

But there was no immediate rush. Helen MacKay spoke.

"Behind the woman's skirts!" Her lips were curling, her voice low, the words a whiplash that cut to the raw. "So! Is that the reason for this?"

"By God," he cried hoarsely, stepping toward her, passion, bitter hurt, a mad insistence of his love upon him, that knew no barriers, no restrictions of time or place or circumstance, the cry of his soul for justice demanding utterance, "you shall not talk to me like that! And you will listen now—you will never have to listen again—but you will listen now. I love you! That is why I have done this. I love you!"

His lips were white, and the great form of the man seemed to quiver as with a sob. "Once"—his voice was quieter—"I had hoped to tell you that in a different way and I had hoped—but it does not matter what I hoped. Even if you loved me there could be no hope now.

"Do you think those devils out there will let us out of this alive? Do you think that hiding behind your skirts will save—or save you? There is food here—see, the table is set—that is one reason why I chose the moment that I did.

"They cannot starve us out. We are armed now, Gunga and I, and we can hold that door for longer than they will care to wait, for a heavier price than they will care to pay. They are not fools. They know that. And that is the one chance for you—that they will accept the terms I have to offer."

"And I am safer here with a murderer, with an impostor who steals a dead man's name?" she asked evenly.

The red surged into Wallen's face and died away again, leaving it pale and haggard. His eyes met hers and held in a long gaze. They were hard, those fearless brown eyes, cruelly hard enough; but, too, they seemed to hold a strange challenge to him to refute what she had said.

"Shall I answer you? Do you expect an answer?" he said steadily. "Then the answer is—no. You are safer here only for a little while—only for a moment."

She started back with a little cry, retreating to her cabin door.

"I did not mean to frighten you," said Wallen gently. "I mean that there is another danger quite apart from any on board. You know what Layton and the others are after, and you have been told by Gunga here that, though you may not choose to believe it, they are inviting their own destruction. In an hour, in twenty-four, there will not be a man alive aboard this ship, and—"

A terrific smash upon the door cut short his words, and, whirling around, he jumped to Gunga's side. The shock of some heavy object, used obviously as a battering ram, had loosened their makeshift prop, the door had yielded by perhaps an inch, and Gunga now was straining with might and main to force it back into place.

Wallen flung his weight against the door—not an instant too soon. It came again, the smash upon the door, but with it a scream of pain above the shouts and cries. Came another scream—then again the scurrying of feet in retreat—then silence. Gunga had fired this time, but not at the floor.

"Sahib," said Gunga calmly, "we were in too great haste. See"—he jammed the dismantled cabin door more securely into position, wedging it against the iron base of the chair with a piece of wood that he wrenched from the chair's back—"it will not slip again."

Wallen nodded, testing the barricade. It was firm now, and would hold as long as anything of the saloon door itself remained.

He looked around.

Helen MacKay had gone into her cabin—and the door was shut. Possibly half an hour passed, and they waited—Gunga on one side a little out or direct range from the door. And then Wallen distinguished a muffled sound of voices.

For a moment he could not place the sound—and then he smiled mirthlessly. Helen MacKay was talking through the porthole of her stateroom to someone out on the deck.

And then, abruptly, in a shout, came Layton's voice, apparently from the top of the companionway:

"You below there!"

Wallen smiled grimly. He had been waiting a long while for that.

"Well?" he answered indifferently.

"Look here now!" Layton's voice became modulated and unctuously smooth. "You ain't doing yourself any good by playing the fool this way. You come on out of there, give us the information we want, and we'll forget about this, for all that two of my chaps have got bullets through their shoulders."

"What's the ship's position?" inquired Wallen coolly.

There was a quick oath from Captain Layton. "I guess you know blamed well!" he growled.

"We've Arru abeam, haven't we?" persisted Wallen quietly.

"Yes."

"Well," said Wallen slowly, "I'll tell you what you want to know—on one condition."

"Aha! So you do know, eh?" snarled Layton. "I thought we'd get it out of you before we were through. You're beginning to show some signs of sense, my lad. What's the condition?"

"It's simple enough," Wallen replied shortly. "You'll stand in close to Arru opposite MacKnight's station—and let Miss MacKay and Gunga here go ashore."

"I, sahib—no!" Gunga had slipped quickly to Wallen's side and was clutching at Wallen's sleeve. "I will not go, sahib. If the sahib gives his life for the Miss MacKay, shall the shame come upon me that I let the sahib die alone?"

"Quiet, Gunga!" Wallen commanded softly. "I cannot hear what the captain says." Then raising his voice: "What did you say, captain?"

"I said you mean you'd kind of count on going along with them after loading us up to the eyes with some fake dope," Layton flung back sarcastically. "Well, you can forget it. You'll never get away from this ship like that."

"I don't expect to get away," said Wallen simply. "They are to go. When they are safe I'll tell you everything you want to know. If what I tell you proves to be a lie—I am still aboard."

"Well, that's fair," admitted Layton. "I'll take you up on that, and—"

His words were lost in a sudden furious altercation in which Wallen could distinguish Mott's voice. Then came a bellow from the captain:

"You close your jaw! What's the girl compared to the other?"

Almost a smile was on Wallen's lips—a smile that was curiously like a prayer. It was his last card, and he had played it, and it was the master trump.

Gunga, in low, passionate words, was still pleading with him. Captain Layton shouted down the companionway again:

"I'll take you up on that. We'll stand in now and I'll send them ashore in a boat."

"No," continued Wallen coldly; "you'll send a boat ashore and ask MacKnight to come out here in a prow. There's a slight difference. I said I wanted to see them safe, not rowed around the ship and put aboard again on the other side."

"Well, have it your own way," laughed Layton unpleasantly. "I'm agreeable, and that goes. We'll—"

It seemed to come from the port quarter—a muffled boom that rolled and reverberated over the water. And then another, and still another. And then a wild shout from the deck.

Wallen glanced quickly about him. For the first time he noticed that Helen MacKay's door was slightly open, and now stood ajar. Gunga rushed into the stateroom next to hers.

Came that dull, distant boom again; then a crash, a ripping, tearing rending of wood and steel, and the Monolith heeled to the shock.

Then Gunga called:

"Sahib, it is too late! I see the flash of guns. He will come from behind one of the islands. It is Ram Gula Singh."

BAY SHORE NEEDS SAFEGUARDS.

A move should be made to safeguard travel on the Bay Shore road. The distressing accident whereby a young Redwood City woman lost her life early Monday morning was caused by the lack of a fence at a dangerous turn. The fence is there, in some places, but at this turn there is no fence and the driver of the car, who could not see the turn because of fog, drove straight on over the bank. A few dollars would have built the fence and saved the life of this wife and mother, a life beyond all value in dollars.

Some time ago the Chamber of Commerce of this city directed the attention of the county supervisors to the fact that many of the turns on the Bay Shore road are particularly dangerous in wet weather because of the mud that runs down from the banks above and renders the pavement slippery. The Chamber recommended that concrete shoulders be put on the pavement at these turns to safeguard autos from skidding and perhaps plunging over the bank. Nothing has yet been done in the matter, and so far as The Enterprise has been able to learn there is no prospect of anything being done. Unless it is done there is every likelihood that before the rainy season is past other accidents will happen on this road, perhaps with loss of life under circumstances equally as sad as the one referred to.

Bay Shore road is a beautiful drive. It is an asset to all San Mateo county because of its scenic advantages and steps should be taken to make it safe

BACKS TO THE WALL.

The Admiral Line of the Pacific Steamship Company has offered a perfectly good steamship for sale for $1.00, provided the buyer would keep the boat on its present coastwise run as the Admiral Line is doing. The offer was turned down for the simple reason that, after figuring cost of operation and overhead, the prospective buyer discovered that he would lose thousands of dollars a year even though he paid but a dollar for the boat.

In commenting on the matter a Pacific Steamship Company officer said: "The demands of radical labor have reached the breaking point with us, as with many other industries. Our backs are to the wall. We can make no more concessions under existing conditions.

"In our files we have blueprints and details all complete for the building of two splendid steamers. It was our original intention to rush these liners to completion after the war, but the revolutionary tendency within the ranks of labor have sent these plans to our files, and in our files they will stay until there has been an unequivocal decision on the part of the people of the United States whether the government of Washington and Lincoln is to continue or whether the red flag is to fly at our mastheads and chaos be our only form of government.

"The handful of I. W. W. agitators who have succeeded in securing control of various labor union locals are not seeking to raise wages or improve working conditions. They seek to confiscate property and overturn our government. They offer nothing constructive. It is all destructive. For good of workingmen who honestly seek to better their conditions and that of their families, any strike declared with confiscatory and revolutionary intent must fail."

No, Willie, don't invest in a new map of Europe for a few days at least. Uncle Sam may have to eventually absorb the whole bloomin' territory in order to effect a peaceful settlement.

Some want government ownership of public utilities, some prefer private ownership, and yet another class do not know what they want. And if business conditions do not become more settled soon we may reach the point where nobody will have anything.

Marriages in aeroplanes are quite the correct thing these days. It insures newspaper publicity. Likewise, in our boyhood days, the home paper never failed to add an extra paragraph when the joyous couple stood up in the old buggy and the parson tied the knot.

We are told that the country will go to pot if the league covenant is not ratified without alteration or reservation. Then we are told that it will go to pot if it is not altered or amended. From which, it would seem, we are headed for the pot any way we take the thing.

The old-time soap box orator has about disappeared. For, you know, automobiles and soap boxes do not harmonize in this day when every man is an embryo millionaire.

An aviator at Mineola, N. Y., recently set a world's altitude record by ascending 34,610 feet above sea level. And, strange to say, he failed to encounter a single presidential boom on the trip.

The principal drawback encountered in "Bringing up Father" these days is to get the old man up to the point of coughing up the modest prices of immodest gowns.

The cat's out of the bag, and it's the same old story of gouge. The general public slipped up on buying most of the army food supplies because wholesalers had scooped them up and resold them to the retail trade at enormous profits. And our jails are still empty!

GIVEN BIRTHDAY PARTY BY HER MANY FRIENDS

A very delightful birthday party was tendered Miss Myrtle Vaccari at her home on Grand avenue last Saturday evening.

Many of the girls and boys of the younger set were present. The evening was spent dancing and playing games and later refreshments were served. The guests departed at the wee hours of the morning and all spent an enjoyable evening.

WOMAN GIVEN $15,000 FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND

A judgment for $15,000 damages against the United States Railroad Administration was given Mrs. Mary Dunn Monday in the superior court of San Mateo county. It was one of the largest sums allowed in a similar case in this county in many years. Mrs. Dunn was given the judgment as administratrix of her husband's estate.

Dunn met his death near the Pacific Coast Steel Company's local plant in August last year. The trial began Friday of last week and lasted three days, Mrs. Dunn being represented by Ross & Ross, the Railroad Administration by Judge E. F. Fitzpatrick and Archie Kincaid.

Skirts Keep Step With the Times

The separate skirt has extended its field of usefulness and entered the ranks of apparel for morning, noon and night. It appears this season in such stuff as nets and lace, trimmed with crystal beads or jet and with sequins, or one runs across it in brilliant velvets, beautifully draped, in models meant to glow or twinkle under the lights of evening.

To be worn at the other end of the day and on the street there are very handsome skirts of plain or striped, or cross-barred woolen materials. They are in quiet colors, as taupe, brown, dark blue, black and white combinations. Among the handsomest there are models made of materials having broad diagonal stripes, laid in flat box plait. Each plait breaks the stripe and is stitched down or pressed in from the waist line downward.

Besides these varieties there is the skirt for afternoon wear with a dressy blouse. It appears in plain velvet, draped at the hips; in skirts made of three or more tiers of scant flounces, having hanging, looped bands about them, or skirts with these bands over tunics of another material, like the model shown in the picture. In this skirt the tunic is of satin and the looped bands of wool like the under skirt. They are suspended under a girdle of the satin and are lined with it. The pointed ends of these bands, turned back and fastened down with a covered button, give the effect of a small pocket at each side.

The tunic skirt and the tiered skirt are to be recommended when one wishes to remodel a last year's suit and make it into something new in style. Along with the one-piece dress, the separate skirt has an important place in every up-to-date wardrobe.

MUCH PAYING OF TAXES IN THIS CITY FOR WEEK

Contributions to the Roosevelt Memorial Fund has been received by County Chairman E. E. Cunningham as follows:

San Bruno	19.71
Redwood City	29.50
Burlingame	244.50
R. M. Tobin and associates for Hillsborough and San Mateo	505.00
Colma	38.10
South San Francisco	191.40
Total	$1,028.21

Tax money has been flowing into the city and county treasury rapidly this week. Many persons who live outside of town took advantage of County Tax Collector McSweeney's visit here Wednesday to pay their city tax the same day and have the whole thing over at once. Mr. McSweeney took in approximately $13,000 the day he was in town with headquarters at the bank and reports this amount about 25 per cent higher than for the similar day last year, also that collections are good the county over.

At the city hall, money has been coming in well, the amount received by City Tax Collector Smith averaging about $600 a day, while Wednesday the amount reached near $1200.

Contributions were made by the school children as follows:

San Bruno	7.00
Colma	21.00
South San Francisco	26.40

ANNOUNCEMENT

It's natural for one after a hard day's work to long for a good rest.

One will then be able to do his work more efficiently.

So it is with Mr. Sam Curusis of Curusis Bros. & Co.

He has just returned from Siberia, after nearly a year of service with the United States Army, and has this much to say to the patrons of Curusis Bros. & Co.:

"The U. S. sure looks good to me and I am glad I am back where civilized people live. After a little rest I intend to assume the management of Curusis Bros. & Co.'s store, and wish to thank and assure one and all that I will do my best to give service, the best of goods at a reasonable price, and help in any way possible to reduce the high cost of living."

Yours truly,
SAM CURUSIS.

Americans used to be renowned in Europe for being good spenders. Now the farmer has heard the injunction to "raise food," and that is an excellent thing. But unfortunately the profiteer has heard it, too.

Mrs. Smith of Mariposa county has returned to her former residence in Huntington Park. Her granddaughter, Marjory, is attending the San Mateo high school.

Johnny Zaro has been very busy burning rubbish to prepare for the plowing of his acreage property on the west side of First addition. One day he gave his neighbors a scare, as they thought the whole town was on fire. But all's well that ends well, and we hope the genial John will have a good crop of whatever it is he wishes to raise.

Miss McEnery, teacher of the first grade in the Edgemont school, was absent from her class this week because of the death of her sister. Mrs. McCree, former teacher at Northbrae school, is taking Miss McEnery's place temporarily.

SAN BRUNO MUSICIANS APPEAR ON CITY PROGRAM

Ladies of the L. L. O. L., No. 200, Pride of California, gave an entertainment and dance Wednesday evening at Red Men's Hall, Golden Gate avenue, San Francisco. Mme. Wanita, a brilliant teacher and musician, a gold medalist of the London College of Music, had charge of most of the program, but a few of the shining lights of San Bruno helped considerably to make the affair the success it was. The program was as follows:

Address, M. Peterson; vocal trio, "Row Us Swiftly" (Campana), Miss Ivy Lord, Al Rosa, Mme. Wanita; vocal solo, "Kathleen Mavourneen," Mrs. S. Mackey; "Priests' March from Athalia," David Miller and James Steinberger, pupils of Mme. Wanita; vocal duet, "Bubbles," Miss Alice Hirsch and David Riviera; violin ensemble, "Beautiful Ohio," Misses Ida Schreiber and Jennie Miller, John Miller and Walter Hirsch; song, Mme. Wanita; violin solo, "Meditation," Walter D. Wanita. This number played on a one-stringed instrument made by Mr. Wanita, was cleverly executed. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mme. Wanita and others for the very excellent program. Dancing was enjoyed until midnight, the Dickson jazz band providing the music, Miss Claire Forster and Miss Jennie Beaton, both of Belle Air Park, acting as accompanists.

CENTER TO HAVE WHIST PARTY.

SACRAMENT ADMINISTERED TO LARGE CLASS NOV. 1ST

The sacrament of confirmation was administered to a class of sixty-six—sixty-two children and four adults—in St. Bruno's parish church Saturday evening, November 1st, by the Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna, D. D., Archbishop of San Francisco. The boys, with white gloves, and the girls, with white veils, made an impressive sight. The Archbishop spoke to the children, explaining again the significance of the ceremony, and his words were listened to with the keenest attention by the children as well as by the congregation that filled the church.

The confirmation candidates were instructed and drilled over a period of three months by the Sisters of the Holy Family. John Callaghan, president of the San Bruno council of the Young Men's Institute, was godfather for the boys, while Mrs. Virginia Caetano was godmother for the girls, acting in the place of Mrs. Filomena Schuster, who had been selected for that office but was unable to attend owing to illness. Miss Mary Reid was organist for the evening and was ably assisted by Leo Vezina, violinist, from San Francisco.

LADIES' AID TO HOLD OLD MAIDS' CONVENTION

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church is making big preparations to give the people of San Bruno a good time November 28th. Usually men are not much interested in old maids, but if they could only see the old maids who are to hold a convention here and hear them sing the praises of man, they would not fail to be on hand when the old maids' convention opens for the transaction of business at Green's Hall.

ST. JAMES' WHIST PARTY AND DANCE

Saturday evening, November 15th, the St. James' Society will hold a whist party and dance in Green's Hall, San Bruno, in aid of St. Bruno's Church.

Among the novel features of this affair will be the simultaneous use of both the upper and lower halls in the building. This means that dancing will start not later than 9:30 p. m. in the upper hall, the music being furnished by the best union jazz orchestra that could be secured.

The confirmation candidates were instructed and drilled over a period of three months by the Sisters of the Holy Family. John Callaghan, president of the San Bruno council of the Young Men's Institute, was godfather for the boys, while Mrs. Virginia Caetano was godmother for the girls, acting in the place of Mrs. Filomena Schuster, who had been selected for that office but was unable to attend owing to illness. Miss Mary Reid was organist for the evening and was ably assisted by Leo Vezina, violinist, from San Francisco.

HALLOWEEN JOKERS ARE BROUGHT INTO COURT

Some oldish young men in San Bruno got quite lively Hallowe'en night. When they painted P. J. Sullivan's beautiful black horse white on one side and ditched his wagon, also brought the Irish republic to the ground right at his very door, P. J. treated it as an Irish-American joke, but when they took Freddy Beltramo's fine automobile for a joy ride and returned it without any air in the tires, they found themselves in court. In consideration of the scarcity of money right now, the fine which was at first imposed was changed to a caution.

Christmas saving is again in full swing. And, in a few weeks, the spending will be a veritable blast.

All interested are invited to this young people's meeting. "Christian Recreation" will be the theme of the evening discussion. A song service precedes the evening sermon.

PARENTS-TEACHERS WILL HEAR AMERICANIZATION TALK

The Parents-Teachers' Association will hold its regular monthly meeting November 18th at Edgemont school. Sedley Peck from the San Mateo high school will address the meeting on Americanization, and it is expected there will be a large attendance. Every one invited.

Miss McEnery, teacher of the first grade in the Edgemont school, is mourning over the death of her young sister.
